AGUE AND FEVER-GREAT CURE.-I hereby certify that for three years I had Ague and Fever of the most violent description. I had several Physi-cians, took large quantities of Quinine, Mercury, and I believe all the Tonica advertised, but all without ermanent relief. At last I tried Carter's Spanish dixture, two bottles of which effectually cured me, and I am happy to say I have had neither Chille or Fevers since. I consider it the best Tonic in the world, and the only medicine that ever reached my JOHN LONGDEN. Beaver Dam, near Richmond Va.

He says in a case of Consumption, dependent on the Liver, the good effects were wonderful indeed. SAMUEL M. BARRELVILLE, Alleghany co., Md To Mesers. Mortimer & Mowbray-Dear Sirsjustice to Dr. Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, I wish to inform you that I was taken sick on the 3d day of January last, with an affection of the stomach, bowels, and kidneys. I was attended by four eminent physicians for more than two menths-all to little or no effect. I had some knowledge of the great virtue in Hampton's Tincture, from one bottle which my wife had taken two years since. I came to the conclusion that I would take no fore medicines from my physicians, but try the Tracture; and I am happy to inferm you that I had not taken it two days before I felt its powerful in fluence upon my stomach. I have continued using the Tincture, and am now able to leave my room, and can eat any common diet without much inconvenience or pressure on my stomach. The afflicted, or their triends are daily visiting me, to learn of the great virtue there is in the Tinoture of Hampton's.

I expect to send you several certificate in a few days—one, especially, from a young lady who has the great curative powers of the Tiucture. I am, with respect, yours, B. W. HALL.

Hope & Co., at Amsterdam, and were never insured. Remarkable good fortune attended all these enterprises. Until the year 1815 not one of his ships was ever lost or captured. It will be easy to form an idea of the amount of capital accumulated by this saving of insurance premiums, when one reflects that the latter went as bigh as from ten to Girard's right-hand man was a countryman of his, named Roberjeot, who, berjeot was the only man whom he now and then, and only now and then, took into his especial confidence; and he had worked in the house of Girard for a respectable, yet very moderate, salary during the lapse of twenty years; frequent ly something was said about increasing it, but nothing of the sort was ever done. he asked for-sixty thousand dollars. Magnanimous as Girard could be in many things, he was, on the other hand, equally petty in many others. Of his numerous relatives in France, who were all poor peasant folks, he would never hear a syllable mentioned. When some of them upon one occasion ventured to cross the ocean and visit him in Philadel phia, he immediately sent them away again, with a trifling present. In one particular instance he exhibited unusual hard-heartedness. His captains had received the strictest orders not to bring either strange goods, passengers, or letters back with them. One of his ships was returning from Bordeaux, and by another, which had hurried on before it another letter from the above:

A close examination into the origin of the Baring family traces it back to a cerhe had a son named John. Thus was established the house which-after the withdrawal of the elder brother John, who retired to Exeter gradually, under the firm-name of Francis Baring & Co., and eventually, under the firm-name of Baring, Brothers & Co., rose to the highest rank of mercantile ORNAMENTAL PAINTING. This amounted to saying, in other words, that receiving consignments was a better business than executing commissions. Three of his sons, Thomas, Alexander, and Henry, entered the London establishment; but the first, who was intended to have carried on the father's name, after the death of the latter on the 12th of September, 1810, assumed the name of Sir Thomas, and withdrew from the house. as the third also found occasion to do at a later period. The latter was passionately fond of play, and indulged in it with so much success that he several times broke "Entreprise Generale des Jeux," of Paris. But the sight of one of the heads of such a house, one night after another, in the great gambling establish ments, produced a bad effect; and even if it did not impair his credit, it in no slight degree damaged his respectability. This was felt at headquarters, and an understanding was come to for his withdrawal from the firm.

Alexander Baring, the second son of ir Francis, had received a second son of Sir Francis, had received a portion of his education in Hanau, had then completed it in England, and commenced his mer- | 4on county, Va: captain was then replaced by another person. At his departure his father confined his advice to two especial recommendations, one of which was to purchase no uncultivated land, and the other not to marry a wife there: "Because," I will take this opportunity of saying said he, "uncultivated lands can be more something about the Baring family, particularly its most distinguished mem-bers, Sir Francis and his second son wife is best suited to the home in which sty.
